A Fair Settlement.—"So the Botsworths are divorced?"

"Yes."

"What were the terms of settlement?"

"She gets $10,000 a year and he gets the liquor."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

---

A New One.—When a lady who was "burning up the road" on the boulevard was overtaken by a traffic officer and motioned to stop, she indignantly asked:

"What do you want with me?"

"You were running 40 miles an hour," answered the officer.

"Forty miles an hour? Why, officer, I haven't been out an hour," said the lady.

"Go ahead," said the officer. "That is a new one on me."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

As Usual.—Police Judge: "I understand that you and your wife had words?"

Prisoner: "We both had words, but I didn't get a chance to use mine."

And He Went.—A story of Lincoln's early political life is told in John Wesley Hill's new book, "Abraham Lincoln, Man of God." It seems that in 1846, during a canvass for Congress, Lincoln attended a preaching service of Peter Cartwright's. Cartwright called on all desiring to go to heaven to stand up. All arose but Lincoln. Then he asked all to rise who did not want to go to hell. Lincoln remained still seated. "I am surprised," said Cartwright, "to see Abe Lincoln sitting back there unmoved by these appeals. If Mr. Lincoln does not want to go to heaven and does not want to escape hell, perhaps he will tell us where he does want to go?" Lincoln slowly arose and replied, "I am going to Congress."—Christian Register.

Extraordinary Benefits of Quarantine.—During an epidemic in a small Southern town every infected house was put under quarantine. After the disease had been checked, an old negress protested vigorously when the health officers started to take down the sign on her house.

"Why, Auntie," exclaimed the officer, "why don't you want me to take it down?"

"Well, sah," she answered, "dey ain' be'n a bill collectah neah dis house sence dat sign went up. You-all let it alone!"—Exchange.
